About Gender author's guidelines

For the composition of texts submitted to the Journal, we ask authors to observe the following guidelines:

- use Trebuchet MS font;
- set 3 cm margins on all sides of the page;
- number paragraphs and any sub-paragraphs.

Choices regarding line spacing and the formatting of titles, notes, and any interview excerpts, graphs, or tables included in the text are left to the author's discretion.

The Journal's editorial team will format the text of accepted articles, starting from the pre-print draft submission stage.

For authors writing in Italian or Spanish:

The article title, abstract, and keywords must be provided both in the original language and in English and must comply with the following requirements:
Abstract: maximum 150 words;
Keywords: minimum 3, maximum 5, separated by commas.

In addition, we ask authors to carefully observe the following rules concerning source citation and the composition of bibliographic references (APA, 7th ed.).

Quotes in the text

- Paraphrase → (Author, Year)
  - Gender is a social construction (Butler, 1990).
  - Butler (1990) argues that gender is socially constructed.
